CONGRESS.

In the House of Representatives on Saturday, Mr. Morris, of Penn., presented resolutions from the Legislature of that State, in relation to what he affirmed, was a question of moment to the country.

Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, did not want the resolutions read.

Mr. Florence remarked that the Legislature was desirous of having an opportunity to enpress its sentiments.

The Clerk commenced reading the resolutions, when Mr. Garnett objected.

This excited considerable discussion, Messrs Florence, Morris, Stephens, and Barksdale urging that the resolutions should be read, as a courtesy due a sovereign State, and Messrs. Garnett and Curry objecting to the reading. Finally, the objection was withdrawn.

The resolutions were then read. They instruct Senators and request representatives from Pennsylvania to vote for such a modification of the tariff as will tend to increase the revenue, and afford ample encouragement to the industrial interests of the country, especially so far as concerns coal and iron. They ment of Captain Curtis, they were soon re- day last. also approve heartily of the President's recommendation of specific duties. The resolutions were laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

On motion of Mr. Kilgore, a resolution was adopted calling on the President for information concerning the importation of slaves in- and taken care of. The mate, Mr. Chase, to Georgia and other States.

The Produce Markets.

Advance in Prices .- There seems to be a general npward tendency and increased activity in the pro-duce markets. The Cincinvati Price Current of

Wednesday, says:
A general upward movement in prices of most articles of produce has taken place here during the week. Flour advanced 15(@20 cents per bbl.— Whiskey 2½ cents per gallon, but lost ½ cent of this at the close. Rye advanced to $1, with a good de-mand. Mess Pork advanced 50 cents per bbl., and bulk pork ½ cent per lb. The feeling in the provision market, on the part of holders, at the close, was decidedly strong, and they manifested unbounded hope in the future, and seem to believe that much higher prices will be realized; buyers, however, are timid, and seem at a loss to know what to do, and do not exhibit any disposition to speculate, but are buying sparingly, and with reference to their more buying sparingly, and with received their united immediate wants. The demand is chiefly from the South, and is confined to mess pork and bacon. The New York Express of Thursday evening.

The advance in groceries continues, and coffee teas and sugars, are held with firmness at higher prices. Sugar has rison 1 cent upon the lowest quotations. The sales of coffee are larger, and there is a speculative feeling in the market such as has not been shown for a long time. Breadstuffs are also attracting continued attention, and holders show no inclination to sell at the advanced quota-

Freights to and from the East are active, and the Sound steamers, including the propellers, are unable to bring the produce to eastern mills, or to take the raw materials and the merchandise going East. The Fall River Company send to New York this morning an extra steamer to free the line of a part of its accumulated freight.

Casualty at Sea and Loss of Life.

The schooner Luther Childs, of Dennis, Massachusetts, Joseph Nickerson, master, sailed from Philadelphia on the 20th December, with a cargo of lumber, bound to St. Kitt's, (W. I.) On the 26th, at noon, when sea struck the vessel, and Captain Nickerson. who was in the act of taking his meridian observation, was washed overboard. Mr. Chase, the mate, and a young seaman named James H. Clark, of Portland, immediately lowered a boat and proceeded to the Captain's assistance, but their exertions proved fruitless, as he sank before the boat could reach him. In the meantime the schooner, which had been hove to at the occurrence of the aceident, drifted away, and at sunset she was last seen hove to, under her foresail, by those in the boat. The latter was now adrift with only one oar, (the others having been lost,) without provisions or water .-In this state Mr. Chase and the seaman Clark remained for five days, when fortunately on the evening of the 31st, they were discovered by the American bark Holbrook, Captain John Curtis, of Portland, Maine, bound from that port to Havana, who at once rescued stored. The Holbrook arrived at Havana on the 12th inst Mr. Chase states that there were only three boys lefton board the schooner, who knew little or nothing of navigation or the management of the vessel, and becoming confused were unable to act. The hopes are that the schooner being in the track of numerous vessels, would be fallen in with and the seaman, Mr. Alexander McDonald, were sent home by the consul in the steamer Black Warrior.

It is hardly credible that a petition was actually presented to the city councils of Philadelphia as lately as Nov. 28th, 1833, praying that "the lighting of our city with oil may be continued," on the ground that the use of gas would produce a bad effect upon the water of the rivers and poison the fish. RAIL ROAD TRAVEL.-The Washington Union in an editorial article, advocates, as perfecting the link of direct railway connecing, by his donation of $10,000 to the Mount tion with the South, to the city of Washing-Vernon Fund, allured Mr. Everett into the ton, the propriety of "authorizing the Alexandria and Washington Railroad Company. ects still less susceptible. In other words, (French's road, as it is called.) at their own Mr. Bonner's paper, to be issued on Monday cost, without one dollar from the government, to strengthen and improve the present bridge over the Potomac and remodel its draws."-

"There can be no reasonable objection to this bridge and into this city. They are light as the omnibuses now crossing the The warm weather of the last three days bridge, and, with a track on one side of the has weakened the ice considerably between bridge, would occupy less space and create New York and Fishkill. Above that village less inconvenience than the omnibuses now This connection is a necessity. There Rhinebeck over a hundred men have been employed in filling the large house during the root for the large house during more than 700 passengers, and the daily the past few days, and a finer quality has average is now 600. It was put in operation December 21, 1857, and up to the 21st of last December (one year) had carried over 72,000 passengers, with a constantly-increasing patronage-and this with all the inconvenience attending the break at the bridge, and the necessity for transferring the passengers to omnibuses. This enterprise is the result of individual energy, and has, so far, been con-sumated under difficulties which would have appalled any other persons than those who have charge of it. Its success is a great publie necessity, and Congress might, we think, safely grant the necessary legislation to enable them to connect directly with the Baltimore depot, and run up to the canal in the heart of the city. As the connecting link between the North and South, distributing its advantages equally to all the roads terminating at Alexandria, while at the same time, by frequent trips, it would accommodate the local travel, it would confer more public accommodation than any road of its length in the Union. We have given the more importance to this subject from the fact that this hiatus between Washington and Alexandria is the only one which in a few months will exist to interrupt a continuous railway connection between New Orleans and New York.

"Indeed, it forms a serious break in a great line of through travel which ere long will extend from Portland, Maine, through New York and New Orleans, via the Tehuantepec route, to San Francisco and Oregon. Apropos of this line of travel, we have received the annual report of Mr. McDaniel, president of the Virginia and Tennessee railroad, showing the prosperous condition and destinies of the work under his direction.

"It is particularly interesting to the citizens of Washington, as proving that city to be upon the most direct line of railroad communication between New York and New Orleans, which "can and will be passed over in seventy-five hours." The connections, complete and unfinished, are fully described in the report.

It makes very prominent the important fact which we have been presenting in the foregoing paragraphs. It is stated in the following extract:

"Upon the completion of this road, yours will be an unbroken line from Washington to New Orleans, and, with the exception of the use of omnibus es through Washington city, the connexion will be complete by railroad and ferry-boat between New York and New Orleans.

It is to be hoped that the obstruction in Washingremoved. The Orange and Alexandria Railroad Company have extended their road down to the wharf in Alexandria, and it is proposed that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company extend their road through the city to some convenient landing on the East Branch of the Potomac, at which the Alexandria boats can deliver the passengers alongside the railway trains. There being a the comfort of the passengers in the transfer."

Solo sac has proved that the present facilities of passage and transportation are most advantageous to commercial and all other interests, whilst the attempt to levy a local tax drives travel and trade upon other routes where there are no such obstructions.

The completion of this connection would secure the whole current of travel between the North and South. Trains would run twice a day, and all who felt inclined to view the curiosities and celebrities of the political metropolis, could do so without loss of time or other inconvenience. That the profits derived by hotels and merchants from greatly-50,000 TICKETS! 5.485 PRIZES!! derived by hotels and merchants from greatly-NEARLY ONE PRIZE TO EVERY NINE TICKETS! enhanced numbers of persons passing through the city would be much greater than any transit tax levied upon the smaller number which is now transported across the District in omnibuses, is beyond question."

The object of this meeting was to consult on the expediency of a direct and permanent connection of the northern and southern sections of our country, at all seasons, by a union of the two tracks with the best possible route to meet all the interests of the District of Columbia. During this interview four great thoroughfares were under partial consideration. A second plan is to continue the Baltimore road in a direct line through to Georgetown and over the aqueduct. The third to lay a branch railway from or near the present stationhouse, as direct as possible, to the point of land in the vicinity of the Arsenal, and the fourth to leave the main route near "Kendallyille," and extending through over the ROOT, Tapioca, Sago, Cream Tartar, Super Eastern Branch, and perfect their line to the Maryland point opposite the good old city of Alexandria.
